The Inside

Out Project

Come join us as we present the Inside Out Project, a collaborative exploration of what it truly means to be part of the Chute family. Inspired by JR's world-renowned call to action through photography, we invite you to participate in an interactive installation and devised, theatrical performance. Together, we will examine issues of identity and stereotypes, and discover our collective responsibility to celebrate who we are. You think you know us? Come inside, as we take you into our schools, our homes, and our hearts and uncover what is really inside out.

Students, parents seek removal of bars from Evanston middle school
a 2-story metal enclosures lend building prisonlike air, they say
"People look at our school like it's a juvenile detention center," one student said. "It makes me feel up there like I'm in a jail. It's not a school, it's not a home, it's not a safe place."
The school's media arts and drama department, led by teacher [Name], called "Removal of Bars from Chute Middle School" a "collaborative project" that will be "a series of events."
"Sometimes they make me feel like I'm in a jail. I think of something that's not designed for safety, it's designed for punishment."
